*Between 1998 and 2001,
seven deaths and fifteen injuries occurred*

because of medical gas misconnections.

A patient's gas connector is literally their lifeline. Inexperienced piping contractors, without certified technicians, have been known to misadapt gas-specific connectors, delivering the wrong gas to patients in life-or-death circumstances.

Medical gas piping certifications for Illinois Pipe Trades members meet the requirements of the American National Standard for Health Care Facilities (ANSI-NFPA 99). When proper installation or service of medical gas systems can mean the difference between a patient living or dying you really have to insist on the best!

The contractor members of the MCA (Mechanical Contractors Association) hire ONLY certified union installers. MCA contractors are certified by the NITC (National Inspection and Testing Corporation) and the American Gas Institute, lowering insurance costs for healthcare facilities by reducing the risk of liability.

Others may tell you their technicians can do the job. But when it's a matter of life or death, you really can't take a chance. The only way you can be CERTAIN you're getting the best trained and certified technicians is with MCA contractors and their Illinois Pipe Trades workforce.
